A Plea to Preachers

“There is a center to the Bible and its message of grace. It is found in Jesus Christ crucified and resurrected. Grace, therefore, must be preached in a way that is centered and focused on Jesus Christ Himself. We must never offer the benefits of the gospel without the Benefactor Himself. For many preachers, however, it is much easier to deal with the pragmatic things, to answer “how to” questions, and even to expose and denounce sin, than it is to give an adequate explanation of the source of the forgiveness, acceptance, and power we need.

“It is a disheartening fact that evangelical Christians, who write vast numbers of Christian books, preach abundant sermons, sponsor numerous conferences and seminars, and broadcast myriad TV and radio programs actually write few books, preach few sermons, sponsor few conferences or seminars, and devote few programs to the theme of Jesus Christ and Him crucified. We give our best and most creative energies to teaching God’s people almost everything except the person and work of our Lord and Savior. This should cause us considerable alarm, for there is reason to fear that our failure here has reached epidemic proportions. We need to return to a true preaching to the heart, rooted in the principle of grace and focused on the person of the Lord Jesus Christ.”

This excerpt is taken from Sinclair Ferguson’s contribution in Feed My Sheep: A Passionate Plea for Preaching.

Capital Improvement Fund – A Timely Appeal

We have recently been informed that two of our heating/air-conditioning units need to be replaced. The units are over twenty years old and have begun to show natural wear and tear and need to be replaced. We have secured a number of bids that have come in at $15,000 to cover the cost of the units and installation. We appealed to our donors before to assist us with the cost of replacing our roof and repaving our parking lot; so many responded generously to that appeal. We need to complete these replacements before the winds of winter blow our way. Your prompt response to this appeal is critical to us at this time since these units must be replaced before winter sets in. Contact us for more information at 719-573-5395.
